Flags of Glory

November 4 at Mobile Memorial Gardens SAVE (South Alabama Veterans Council) held the annual Flags of Glory honoring America's Heroes. This was a very nice event. 100's of flags line the roads at Memorial Gardens. Many cars from the Deep South Region of the Antique Automobile Club of America rode the Vets through the flags with the motor cycles following close behind.

Letter from the Editor

This is my favorite time of the year. The cool air moves in and the humidity has moved out. I am not so thrilled by the early sunsets. The darkness comes early leaving little outside time after work. Because of this I guess I will look forward to more time inside to paint, quilt and work on the newsletter.

The holiday season is in full swing and that thrills me. Turkey day is right around the corner! Thanksgiving dinner with family is always a treat. We love to look through the Black Friday sales ads. Shopping and wrapping presents are on the agenda for the weekend.

During the long weekend the Christmas tree will find its way into the living room and the rest of the decor will fill the house. Our wreath will go on the front door.

This is a great time to start dreaming about the new year. A time to start setting goals for the next year. What about putting on your to do list - attending a National Meet.

The 2019 winter National Meet in Ocala, Florida is the first National Show of the year. What an opportunity this is for us. A show that is close to us.

On this page I have provided information about the Meet. The website for the meet provides all the information you will need to plan a fun AACA trip to Ocala. I have also included the host hotel and alternate hotel information to make it easier for you.

Below you will find great instructions on how to register your vehicle in this show. Registration should be open very soon if not already open.

If you do not have a vehicle you wish to enter in the Meet please consider being a judge. You will have a chance to learn how to be a judge and will get the opportunity to learn under some of the best judges in the nation.

Have a great holiday season and let's make a point to support our neighboring regions and attend this show.

REWIND

Election Time!

Election time has rolled around again! The nominating committee has a recommended slate of candidates for 1985 and their names will be on the ballot to be voted on at our November meeting on Thursday, the 18th. There were no nominations from the floor at our October meeting. You will notice this is the 3rd Thursday, as usual in November meeting on Thursday, because the 4th Thursday is Thanksgiving Day. There will be a space on the ballot for a write-in for each office if you choose. Before you write in a name, however, be sure he/she will serve, or your vote will not be counted. At this meeting we will also have new members to vote in, so please be at the meeting this Thursday night at 7:30 and cast your vote.

We need you there!

Also, to make things easier for you and your new officers, please give our secretary, Frances Whigham, a check or cash for your AACA and DSR dues at the meeting. Frances has graciously agreed to send in your AACA dues which will certainly be a convenience to you. Dues for both National and local clubs are $35 for a couple and $35 for a single – and this pays you up in both clubs! It can all be made out in one check if you wish.

Reservations must be made to attend the DSR Christmas Party at Korbet's Restaurant pm December 11th, so please let Lycle know and pay for your meal and reservation. It is $12.50 per person and she must know at least a week in advance. The DSR Christmas

The 1985 candidates on the ballot will be Buddy Paquet for president, Al White for vice president, Jane Bruton for secretary, Frances Whigham for treasurer, Robert and Sharon Moore for activities coordinators, Frank Sturges for member-at-Large and Patt Paquet for editor of the Sparkplug.

As a member of the nominating committee, I'd like to say that we have really great members in the club to select from and we believe that we have a very excellent slate of candidates. The DSR is going forward under their leadership. In fact, they already have plans for a bigger and better 1985.

Happy November 2018 Everyone,

This is considered the fall season to some - to others this is football season, and to most of us this is fall car show season. We had quite a few car shows locally this month Dauphin Way Baptist, South Alabama British Car Club, and last Sunday afternoon I attended the 4th annual Mobile Bay Vintage Motorcycle Show at the Ohr-O'Keefe museum in Biloxi where there were 62 vintage motorcycles registered. (See the next page for a collage of photos)

Our DSR End of Year Party will be our next event. It will be held at the Riverview Hotel in the Harbor Room on Thursday November 29, 2018 starting at 5:30 pm. Entertainment starts at 5:30 pm with dinner being served at 6:30. If you have not sent your check for $35 each please give, or send your check to Paul or Charlotte.

Please read your world class November DSR newsletter, and share it with everyone that would appreciate reading it. Also please keep in mind we are looking for sponsors and help with our Waterfront shows for 2019. There are plenty of activities planned for next year, so be ready.

10 Tips for Safe Winter Classic Car Storage

Reprinted from <https://heacockclassic.com/articles/10-tips-for-safe-winter-classic-car-storage/> by Bob DeKorne

The reality of winter storms looming just around the corner means it's time for many of us to store our classic cars for the next few months. Classic cars require a little extra care when it comes to winter storage, and while it might be a time-consuming process, it is vital to help ensure easy starting and no expenses come springtime. Taking the time now to properly store your car will save time and money in the long run, and might even prevent some expensive damage and repairs. The following are ten tips from Heacock Classic that car owners should take before storing their vehicles during the winter:

1. Detail the vehicle.

It's important that the vehicle is clean and dry with wax and surface cleaners before being tucked away. Don't forget the underside while washing, and be sure to protect the chrome as well. The deluxe job includes the trunk, cleaning the glass, shampooing the carpets, and protecting the rubber areas of the car so they don't crack in the cold weather. Consider using a desiccant bag inside.

2. Replace the engine oil.

When in use, owners should change the oil per their manufacturer's recommendations, but it's important to store a car with clean, fresh oil, even if it was recently changed. Old oil contains contaminants, like moisture and acids, which will pit bearings and other engine parts. Be sure the vehicle is warmed up well before changing the oil, so contaminants are flushed away.

3. Lubricate everything.

Be sure wheel bearings are up to snuff, and hit all the zerk fittings you can find on the steering components and suspension. Oil the door hinges, the trunk and hood, too, to help keep pivot points from seizing up.

4. Stabilize the fuel.

Before you store, first add fuel stabilizer -1 oz. to every 2.5 gallons of gasoline for STA-BIL® Brand. Then fill the tank 95 percent full of fresh fuel, allowing the fuel stabilizer to mix with the fresh fuel. Drive the car for a few minutes to make sure the stabilized fuel is pulled into the carburetor and the injectors.

There is still some confusion among some classic car owners who think draining their fuel tank will help protect their engine, but it's impossible to fully drain your fuel system. The remaining tiny droplets of fuel are exposed to air, which in turn creates gum and varnish buildup and corrosion on the walls of your system. The build-up can develop in key places that can lead to a variety of engine problems come springtime.

5. Check the coolant.

Verify that the radiator is filled with the correct mix of coolant and water, or you could end up with ice in your cooling system. If you aren't sure about the proper mixture, check the coolant label instructions for the temperature range you may encounter and exceed it.

6. Prepare the Battery.

Run a trickle charger, either in the car or not, but Safety First – always use eye protection when working on a battery! If you remove it, clean off the terminals with water and baking soda, then rinse with distilled water. Store the battery in an unfrozen dry place off the ground (never on concrete), and attach a trickle charger.

7. Tend to the Tires

Avoid flat spotting by either lifting the tires off the ground on jack stands, overinflating them for storage, or simply allow for room to start the car and move it once a month. Any of them will work, but remember – the car on jack stands is immobile in case of an avoidable emergency. Clean and dress the tires and wheels.

8. Reject the rodents

Plenty of home remedies here – with Bounce dryer sheets, Irish Spring soap, and ultrasonic devices leading the pack. Of course, cats (of all kinds) and dogs (Rat terrier, of course) always work, and even rubber snakes and traps with Certs glued to them were praised. Products like FreshCab, TomCat, and even bay leaves have worked, but it seems only the

9. Remove the Obvious

Open the glove box or any other small, dark places a mouse would like to live. Some even suggest opening the hood – after disabling the trouble lamp. Steel wool in the tailpipe keeps them out of that end, and dryer sheets and a cover over the intake manifold to keep them out of the airbox.

10. Store in a safe location.

Make sure to store your classic car in a locked, secure facility that is dry and has limited light exposure. Check doors and windows for security and water-tight seals. Use a motion alarm or security camera where possible, and always check and double-check all locks. Most important – visit your car often, keep an eye on things, and most likely, you'll fire right up in the spring.

You care for your vehicle and want it protected through rain, snow, sleet, hail by trying to avoid all of the above.

 Vice President,
 Library & Research Center

You've had an antique vehicle for years, you belong to the finest car club there is. It provides lots of good times and years of memories. You are part of a community, a national community of old car enthusiasts. You share the experience of belonging with many thousands from across the country. You also have another common trait. You've collected an array of literature, documents, magazines, and other types of printed matter. More than you really need. What are you doing with the duplicates? Perhaps you sold a vehicle and now have a file cabinet of material which has no meaning to you. How are you going to dispose of it all? You really don't have the heart to throw it away.

Well here's a good feeling move you can make. Your AACA Library can use your collection to further their responsibilities as America's Automotive Library.

They would really appreciate receiving it to add to their files. And so would the researcher who hasn't been able to find the document you donated and now here it is in our library. It's all tax deductible as the Library and Research Center is a 501.C3 organization. They'll send you a nice thank you letter and receipt of material. It's your responsibility to place a value on it. Call the Library, 717-534-2082 ask for Chris Ritter or email critter@aca.org. Do it now and start glowing.

First German Car

First German Car

Reprinted with permission from automostory
www.automostory.com

Germany is the cradle of modern day car industry. The first German car made in 1885 set the tone for automobile revolution world over. The German entrepreneurs gradually came up with impeccable engineering, style, luxury, and speed to define car transportation for years to come.

The first German car shown in the picture is both the older and restored versions of the same vehicle. Now days, the Germans lead in manufacturing many of the world's top luxury vehicles. We think of BMW, Mercedes Benz and Audi whenever we talk about luxury cars. The auto industry in the country that began with production of the first German car continues to be popular world over.

Motorwagen to Mercedes

in 1885. Appearing like a horse carriage, it was also the first motor car in the world. He developed and patented his invention four-stroke internal combustion engine in 1886. The first German car model built in 1885 crashed during a public demonstration.

Soon Benz developed a better model running on gasoline and went for its commercial production in 1887. The vehicle hit the market next year and was an instant hit. In 1888, Benz's wife travelled 65 mile in the car to see her ailing father. It drew public attention and soon Benz's car began to be sold in Germany and France.

In the early 1900s, several German car makes came into existence. While Benz Sons dominated the market, Opel produced its first German car in 1906. It became the first German car manufacturer maker to set up a mass production assembly line. In 1935, Opel was the first German car manufacturer to cross 100,000 vehicle productions in a year.

Volkswagen, founded in 1937 by the Nazi regime, was the first German car maker to produce family cars for common people, such as Thing, Amarok, and Beetle. In the post-war era, the company led the auto revolution in West Germany. Its engineering achievements are widely acclaimed.

Audi, established in 1910, became the first German car company to exclusively focus on vehicles with powerful engines. Its earliest models Sport-Phaeton and Type B and subsequent six cylinder models had more powerful engines than their contemporaries. Audi was also the first German car maker to produce left-handed car the Audi Type K.

BMW entered the car market in 1959 and was the first German car maker to go for ultra-luxury and sports car segment. It owns BMW, Rolls Royce, and Mini brands, among the costliest car brands in the world.

Modern German Car Industry

The first German car produced more than a century ago continues to be a trendsetter for the country's auto industry. Innovation still drives the car manufacturing industry in the country. Every car model has something new to showcase.

Germany is the fourth biggest producer of cars in the world. The German car makers, such as Volkswagen, BMW, Daimler, Porsche, and Audi, produce six million cars at home and another 5.5 million abroad. Volkswagen is the third biggest auto company in the world. The museums in the country have dedicated auto galleries that have all symbolic cars, from the first German car made by Benz to the latest sedans, on display.

The Next Generation

By Stacy Zimmerman, Speedster editor, szimmerman@aaca.org

No, I'm not talking about Star Trek. I'm talking about the future members of AACA, the next group of car lovers and the ones who are going to carry on our legacy. How are we engaging them and getting them involved in this hobby?

While working at the Hershey Fall Meet, I saw lots of teens and younger kids tolling around the fields with their parents and grandparents. It was pretty awesome to see their faces light up when they saw a car that piqued their interest. I have to admit to eavesdropping a few times to overhear questions being asked by students or stories being shared by old-timers.

Did you know that AACA has both Junior and Student memberships that are only $12 or less a year? Did you know that most AACA National car shows and the Annual Meeting in Philadelphia have a hands-on youth program during the events? Many AACA regions and chapters have started AACA student chapters in their local areas. AACA takes pride in the fact that we work closely with three of the best college restoration programs in the country - McPherson College, Pennsylvania College of Technology (PennTech) and Alfred State College.

Did you know that AACA sponsors X-Cup Race teams each year and provides scholarships to the winning teams? Speaking of scholarships... Did you know that AACA gave away over $10,000 in scholarships this year?! And that amount is available every year to students!

We know that doing all of these things is just the tip of the iceberg. We need to be doing more. Each one of us needs to do anything and everything we can to at least slow down the "greying" of our hobby. What do you think is the best way we can help the next generation catch old car fever? I want to hear from you, so email me your ideas. I'll be sure to share them in the next Speedster.

Personally, I think the best way to get youth interested in this hobby and AACA is the same way I got involved - my parents and grandparents. I say let kids sit and take rides in your classics. Let them help you tinker with the car in the garage. Take them with you to car shows - walk around, let them ask questions; if you don't know the answer, look it up together later. These are the things they will remember. These are the things that will make a difference.
